

Brief

Ok, so this might sound crazy but hear me out. Since just before spring break, we've been hearing reports about sightings and strange things happening on the floor. We finally have photographic evidence of what we think is going on.

Sasquatch.

We're not sure if this is some sort of stress induced mania, as finals and thesis deadlines approach, or something more.

We need YOU

So that's where YOU come in. We're recruiting a team of investigators to help us get to the bottom of this and find out if we really do have a Sasquatch living among us.

The Kit

Each investigator will receive a kit of supplies to aid them in their search and help recover evidence and report back to basecamp. The physical evidence and sightings have been reported about once a day, so you need to be on the lookout!

Communication

- Receive email daily
- Find evidence
- Document evidence
- Report back
- Follow instructions!

We'll be communicating with you over email throughout the investigation, giving updates and information daily.

When you find evidence,

Document it in the manner we tell you in our communication.

Report back to basecamp with your findings each day.

At the end of our excursion this week, we'll meet again right here and see if we can piece together our data and figure out this mystery!
